

NEW LEONARDS STORE . . . A dramatic "tower of light" entrance will be the architectural highlight of the new Leonards Store in Burbank. The store will be opened Nov. 21 at 641 N. Victory Blvd., Burbank, with all stores in the Leonards chain celebrating the opening. The four-day grand opening celebration will begin tomorrow in Torrance, El Segundo, and Garden Grove stores.

'Sound-Off Saxons' Captures Sounds of North High School
 What sounds does one usually hear around a high school? Students at North High are in the process of answering that question as they record football games, rallies, and graduation exercises. Sponsored by the Student Council, the project will capture sounds ranging from drills to play rehearsals to Richard Ashley, Cheryl Osborn, Linda Robinson, Larry Ball, Rita Wells, and Janet Hanson are writing the script for the recording. Art students, under the supervision of Ray Brown, Gary Parton, and Miss Joan Winchell, North High students are designing the booklet. Century Recording Service is doing the technical work for the Student Council. "Sound-off Saxons" will be put on sale in February, reports Mrs. Mary Montgomery, student activities advisor.

To Attend Conference
 William J. Teague, vice president of Pepperdine College, and Carl R. Terizian, professor of political science at Woodbury College, will deliver the principal addresses at the fourth annual Pacific Southwest Achievers Management Conference Friday and Saturday. More than 300 teenage business executives from the Junior Achievement program will attend the two-day meeting in Pasadena. Workshops and seminars designed to acquaint the Achiever delegates with the realities of the business world are planned during the meeting.
